EXPLANATORY NOTE

Emergencies and disasters are a common feature in our lives here in the Philippines. For the most part, the National Disaster Coordinating Council (NDCC) has done its job in staying on top of the situation and dealing with these calamities as they come. In order to assist them, the public sector should be trained on how to deal with various emergencies and disasters since they are the ones who face them initially. Our citizens look to our government for direction in times of crisis so it is important that all employee in the public sector know what to do in these situation.

To carry out this task of preparing our public sector for calamities, the NDCC should study the best practices in training and develop a standard curriculum for training. This way, the trainings conducted will be equally effective all over the country.

This bill seeks to mandate the NDCC to formulate and maintain a standard training curriculum for all public sector employees in dealing with and planning for emergencies and disasters.*
