Senate Bill No. 1467

INTRODUCED BY SEN. JINGGOY EJERCITO ESTRADA

EXPLANATORY NOTE

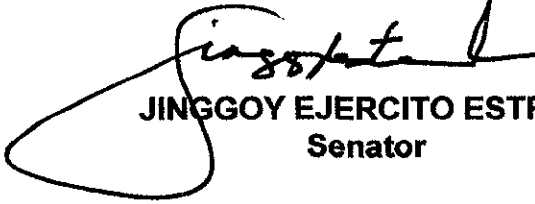

Never in contemporary history has the world experienced the upsurge of modern information technology from today. We are swarmed with information, facts and ideas, which continue to increase everyday, by volume and density. Thus, the world has literally and figuratively shrunk and dwindled as events and occurrences are disseminated and dispatched simultaneously or processed and flown from one corner of the earth to another in mere nanoseconds. This phenomenal development serves as a framework for the country's development and growth. Handled positively, it ensures immediacy of action and increased responsiveness to events and assured global competitiveness. On the other hand, it may also be a bane to progress and truthfulness for his modern technology may be manipulated, controlled and maneuvered to suit vested interests.

Although we are one of those countries today gearing towards computerization to cope with the challenges and demands of the so-called "Information Age", it is lamentable to say that we are still way behind other countries with respect to information technology. Our educational institutions, government agencies, corporate firms and ordinary citizens are ill equipped in computer knowledge. Moreover, we are lacking sorely in qualified instructors, most of them, at best are themselves in the process of continuing education. Hence, there is an urgent need for world-class Information Technology (IT) professionals in order to produce globally competitive workforce.

The spread of information technology on the electronic highway has also given rise to the proliferation of pornographic materials in the Internet. The outright denial by persons concerned can be a classic example of the deceit, peril or hazard that the government should seek to prevent. There is a need to regulate this industry to avert moral degradation among our youth.

This proposed measure, therefore, seeks to create a National Council for Information Technology and Development which will pave the way for an extensive use of IT for the country's benefit by upgrading computer literacy and education. The Board of Directors shall manage the Council. It shall be composed of various concerned government agencies and representatives from the private sectors to assure effective cooperative effort towards the realization of its thrusts and objectives. The Council shall likewise regulate local access to commercial online services to prevent minors from being exposed to cyberspace abuses such as pornography and violence.

Considering the importance and relevance of this proposed measure, early passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
