EXPLANATORY NOTE

This piece of legislation seeks to uphold Section 18 of Article II of the 1987 Constitution, which states that "The State affirms labor as a primary social economic force. It shall protect the rights of workers and promote their welfare". In addition, the State is also mandated to promote the right to health of the people and instill health consciousness among them.

Reproductive diseases are prevalent in women. By reason of the fragile physical structure and maternal functions of women, the Constitution, specifically Sec. 14 of Art. XIII, gives special concern to working women and expressly mandates the state to protect them by providing safe and healthful conditions, taking into account their maternal functions.

And to effectively carry out the intent and spirit of the above mentioned state policies, particularly in the alleviation and protection of the welfare of women workers both in government and private sectors there is a need to approved this bill.
