AN ACT
INCREASING THE MONTHLY SOCIAL PENSION OF SENIOR CITIZENS AND EXPANDING THE COVERAGE THEREOF, AMENDING FOR THE PURPOSE
SECTIONS 2 AND 5 OF REPUBLIC ACT NO. 7432, AS AMENDED BY REPUBLIC
ACT NO. 9257, FURTHER AMENDED BY REPUBLIC ACT NO 9994, OTHERWISE KNOWN AS THE "EXPANDED SENIOR CITIZENS ACT OF 2010"

EXPLANATORY NOTE

As we grow older, it becomes more difficult to generate income. The likelihood of being employed falls sharply after the age of 60. This is why social pension is important, playing a key role in supporting individuals to live their later years with autonomy and dignity.

Pensions provide a source of income that is both regular and predictable. It helps individuals to plan and also provides greater security which can reduce stress and anxiety. When older people receive a pension, they have a say in how they spend their income. This allows much greater agency, autonomy and dignity than when they have to depend on others for their needs.

According to a study conducted by the Coalition of Services of the Elderly (COSE), social pension constituted on average almost a third of household income, suggesting that it makes an important contribution to these households as it is used for food, medical expenses and other household bills.

Unfortunately, based also on the same study, of 8 million senior citizens in the country, only 32% receive social pension at only P500/month, while 38% do not receive any pension at all. Even among the 1.5 million SSS pensioners, less than half receive not more than P3,400/month.

With no or inadequate pension for many Filipino senior citizens, they are forced to rely on the modest incomes of their families who are also struggling to make a living. Giving them social pension will greatly help to address their daily needs, and provide some relief to their households.

The proposed measure thus seeks to mandate government to provide social pension of P1,000 to all senior citizens who do not have social pension or receive some pension not greater than P3,000.

Our senior citizens have broadly contributed to the development of our nation. It is time for us to return their sacrifices by ensuring that they are cared for in their old age.

In view of the foregoing, approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
