ESTABLISHING A FORENSIC DNA DATABASE IN THE PHILIPPINES,

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Article XIV, Section 10 of the 1987 Constitution provides that:

"Science and technology are essential for national development and progress. The State shall give priority to research and development, invention, innovation, and their utilization; and to science and technology education, training, and services. It shall support indigenous, appropriate, and self-reliant scientific and technological capabilities, and their application to the country's productive systems and national life."

DNA technology has been scientifically proven to be an invaluable tool in the identification of a person. One of the most important sociological impacts of this technology has been its use in establishing the identity and prosecution of criminals. It can be used to identify criminals with scientific accuracy when biological evidence exists.

Conversely, it can also be used to clear suspects and exonerate persons mistakenly accused or convicted of crimes. DNA analysis is found to have other several uses for forensic investigation, such as establishing paternity and other family relationships and the identification of disaster victims and missing persons.

In line with the growing demands of the government to identify its citizens systematically, the proposed national DNA database shall provide fast and accurate using scientific method of identification.

This bill will provide the statutory authority for the creation of a forensic National DNA Database in the country that will greatly contribute to the investigation and expeditious resolution of crimes, providing a reliable method of identification.

In view of the foregoing, I strongly urge the immediate passage of this bill.
