AN ACT
DECLARING APRIL 7 OF EVERY YEAR AS BARANGAY HEALTH AND NUTRITION WORKERS DAY

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Primary health care is an integral part of our national health system. It is based on "practical, scientifically sound and socially acceptable methods and technology made universally accessible to individuals and families in the community at every stage of their development." Its functions and focus contribute to the overall social and economic development of the community (Alma-Ata Declaration, 1978)<sup>1</sup>.

In our communities, and for decades, our Barangay Health Workers (BHWs) and Barangay Nutrition Scholars (BNS) have been at the forefront of delivering primary health care and nutrition services. They served as the first contact of individuals and families to our national health system. They complement our cadres of medical and health professionals, especially in geographically isolated and disadvantaged areas (GIDAs) and remote communities.

With the country's continuing fight against the COVID-19 pandemic, despite the risk of exposure to infection, our BHWs and BNS play an essential role in ensuring continuity in the delivery of primary health care and nutrition services and in bridging the national-local COVID-19 response to the communities through health and nutrition promotion and education.

In recognition of our BHWs and BNS's role and contribution, this bill seeks to declare April 7 of every year, which is marked and celebrated globally as World Health Day, as Barangay Health and Nutrition Workers Day. It aims to promote and emphasize the role of our community health and nutrition workers and volunteers in addressing health and nutrition issues and in delivering appropriate services.

The immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought, para sa kalusugan at nutrisyon ng barangay.
