EXPLANATORY NOTE

Education is the prime motive force for the development of a nation. This is recognized by the Constitution by making education the foremost concern of the State. Providing access for academic and technical development must be the responsibility of the government.

In line with this duly recognized duty, this bill is being proposed. The bill is recognizing and providing the mechanism for the establishment and propagating the open and distance learning educational modes of the Philippines. Though certain higher educational institutions have been using this mode for pedagogical purposes, this bill entrusts to the University of the Philippines Open University to be the vanguard for the development of these learning systems. The University shall assist and provide for necessary expertise for schools wishing to create open and distance learning programs.

This learning mode will provide access to those who wish to enhance their academic and technical training without being bound by the logistical difficulties present in our educational landscape. By opening this portal of learning, the future is assured of its development and growth.

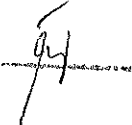

These being the premises, the passage of this bill is most earnestly sought.
