Senate Bill No. 513

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The 1987 Philippine Constitution states that "the State shall establish and maintain a system of scholarship grants, student loan programs, subsidies and other incentives which shall be available to deserving students in both public and private schools, especially to the underprivileged." (Sec. 2 (3), Article XIV).

But although there are a number of scholarship grants offered by the government, both local and national, catering to financial needs of students coming from various sectors and categories, there still exists serious need to further extend monetary aid to students belonging to economically disadvantaged families.

Considering that fact that these underprivileged students also belong to the majority group of our youth, it is but necessary to provide them with added assistance if not absolute access to quality tertiary education, despite their being financially incapable.

And it is for this reason that the passage of this legislation is earnestly sought because extending these underprivileged students more access to quality education is empowering them, thus making them an integral part of nation-building.
