Senate Bill No. 991

INTRODUCED BY HON. MANNY VILLAR

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Our country's archipelagic character has endowed us with a wide array of tourism attractions ranging from majestic volcanoes, lush tropical forests, breath-taking waterfalls, magnificent seascapes, spectacular coral reef formations, and many other rare attractions endemic only in the Philippines.

This, however, should not blind us from the alarming state of degradation of our environment and our people's cultural traditions. Side by side with tourism growth, our forests are being denuded at the rate of 25 hectares per hour. Only an estimated 119,000 has. of our country's mangrove forests remain. Of the 423 rivers being monitored by the government, about half are already polluted, 40 of which are declared biologically dead. Erosion of the cultural traditions go unabated as more members of our indigenous cultural communities are tempted into cultivating marijuana in their ancestral lands for livelihood.

The great irony of having tourism growth rate but getting as well a damaged environment is a major problem that this measure seeks to address. The bill proposes an ecotourism policy that would lay down a tourism framework based on a well-crafted balance between economic growth and environmental protection. It creates a National Ecotourism Commission which shall formulate and implement an Ecotourism Masterplan with the assistance of the Department of Tourism and the Department of Environment and Natural Resources.

Given importance in this measure is the role of the local communities including the indigenous cultural communities as stewards of the environment in their respective localities. By doing so, it is hoped that they shall also benefit from the profits generated from ecotourism activities.

The richness of our resources could only be optimally utilized if they are best protected. Tourism would yield the most profits if it ensures the primary of the environment and the preservation of the culture of our people. It is but time that we reorient our tourism goals to a low-impact and sustainable type of tourism before nothing else would be left to us.

Approval of the bill is therefore earnestly sought.
