SENATE
S. No. 1789

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to extend monthly pensions and other privileges to boxers and other athletes who became world champions at one time in their lives.

Athletes, especially boxers, risk lives and limbs in order to give honor and glory to their motherland. Boxers in particular go to the rings unmindful of danger to themselves, but only armed with the thought that what they are doing redounds not only to their benefit but to the country as well. Inside the ring, however, anything could happen – the boxer loses his sight, even consciousness and ultimately his life. Hence, woe to the champion who became incapacitated or even died without seeing any financial reward in case of incapacity or death.

The prestige that boxing great Manny Pacquiao, our very own compatriot from General Santos City, has brought to the country in the international arena cannot be overemphasized. Undoubtedly, he has restored the Philippines in the world boxing map, earning the adulation and respect not only of his countrymen but of boxing aficionados all over the world.

We not only excel in boxing but in other sports as well. Lydia de Vega, Elma Muros-Posadas, the bowling hall-of-famer Paeng Nepomuceno – all are world- or regional- class champions themselves. The list is endless but our memories are short.

But champions are champions. They deserve something better than a mere pat in the back or the adulation of his countrymen. They ought to receive something tangible when all the admiring glances and shrieking sounds are gone.

The cases of former Filipino world boxing champions Rolando Navarette and Luisito Espinosa are cases in point. Navarette is reduced to the life of a pauper-dependent on charitable gestures from his countrymen for his existence and for his medical expenses. Luisito Espinosa is forced to fight mediocre fights just so he could survive in a far away land (the United States). Alone and abandoned, they are left with nothing to themselves. Something needs to be done.

This bill, therefore, seeks to grant a monthly pension of Fifteen Thousand Pesos (P15,000.00) to former world champions upon retirement at age 50 or who became incapacitated in pursuing their careers. Likewise, this bill shoulders the hospitalization and medical expenses of said athletes at not more than Two Hundred Thousand (P200,000.00) Pesos per hospitalization.

In view of the foregoing circumstances, approval of this bill is urgently requested.
