Senate Bill No. 449

INTRODUCED BY SEN. JINGGOY EJERCITO ESTRADA

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The National Food Authority (NFA) is one of the critical agencies of the government tasked to ensure continuous and adequate food supply and to maintain prices of food at affordable level for the common people.

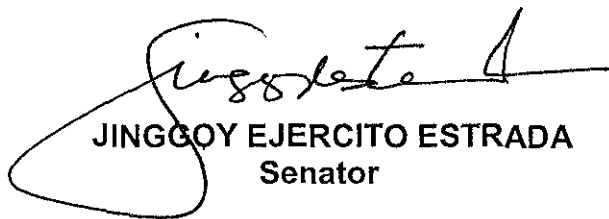

One of the recurring problems of the nation is rice shortage. Thus, NFA was established as a successor to the National Grains Authority and the National Rice Corporation to enable government to regulate the activities of rice traders as well as to regulate the cost and price of rice.

As presently constituted, the NFA Council does not include any representative from the farmers as well as the private sector, representing the interests of rice consumers and entrepreneurs engaged in rice production.

Under Presidential Decree No. 4 issued on September 26, 1972, entitled, "Providing for the Development of the Rice and Corn Industry and Creating for this purpose the National Grains Authority", a representative from the consuming sector and traders were included in the composition of the National Grains Industry Development Council. Subsequently, with the issuance of Presidential Decree No. 1485 on June 11, 1978, further amending certain provisions of the National Grains Industry Development Act, representation from the rice producers and rice and corn millers and traders was deleted. On January 14, 1981, Presidential Decree No. 177, entitled, Reconstituting the National Grains Authority to the National Food Authority, Broadening its Functions and Powers and for the other purposes" was issued which, likewise, deleted representation from the following sectors, namely, the consuming sector and the representatives from the rice producers and rice and corn millers and traders.

It is necessary to include farmers and private sector in the Council to assist in the formulation of policies and strategies to mainly stable rice supply at affordable prices and likewise in the development of pricing policies, the employment of rice production technology as well as in the implementation of import and export mechanism sensitive to the problems and concern of rice growers and rice consumers. Likewise, the representation of these particular sectors will enable the Council to reduce bureaucratic practices because they are aware of the problem on a first hand basis and have the expertise, experience as well as the desire for immediate results to cut through red tape.

This bill seeks to achieve above mentioned objectives by including representatives from the farmers and the private sector in the NFA Council.
