SYMBOLS OF AUTHORITY

Seal of the Senate

A seal is defined as an impressed device attached to a paper for purposes of authentication, and the instrument, by which it is made is a seal press or a stamp. The seals of the Republic are the seals of office — not the man occupying the position — hence the text "Official Seal" on the circular border of the seal. Most seals of various government agencies feature symbols pertinent to and symbolic to the functions of the agency.

Mace of the Senate

The mace is the symbol of authority of the Senate. Its symbolism strongly holds for the authority of the President of the Senate. It is also the authority of the Sergeant-at-Arms when enforcing order in the Senate. The mace is an essential part of the regalia of the Senate. Without it, the Senate is not considered to be properly constituted. When the Senate is in session, the mace is displayed at the Senate President's rostrum.

The Sergeant-at-Arms, custodian of the mace, is charged with its use when necessary to preserve order. When the occasion calls for it, or when there is disorder in the session hall, he shall lift the mace from its pedestal and present it before an unruly member in order to restore order or quell boisterous behavior in the Chamber.

The Gavel

The gavel is used by the President of the Senate for commanding attention whenever the Senate is in session.
