EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Constitution, Article 2, Section 27 provides that:

"The State shall maintain honesty and integrity in the public service and take positive and effective measures against graft and corruption".

Graft and corruption still abound and continue despite laws imposing severe penalties for their violation. One reason why many corrupt acts go unreported is because potential witnesses fear reprisals from the perpetrators.

Accordingly, the government must encourage potential witnesses to come out with information by providing them adequate protection from reprisals.

This bill seeks to provide protection to employees, who may have information relating to a substantial violation of law related to a public contract, including the competition for or negotiation of a contract, from reprisals of their employers.

In consideration of the above premises, early approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
