S.B. No. 989

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Graft and corruption is one of the most pervasive problem in the country today. Cases show that persons, particularly government officials, who may be held liable for graft or corruption under Republic Act No. 3019 (otherwise known Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act) commit the same during the time of their incumbency or at a time when they still have "strong connections" in government. Usually, concerned citizens or the proper government agency only muster the courage to file a case or discover such irregularity after a change in government administration. Prior to the filing of a case, in-depth investigations or extensive evidence gathering are required to build an airtight case. However, by the time a case is about to be initiated against such erring government official, the crime is about to prescribe.

Section 11 of R.A. 3019 provides that offenses punishable under said law shall prescribed in fifteen (15) years. This bill seeks to amend this provision by increasing the prescriptive period to thirty (30) years. With the passage of this bill, it is hoped that government scalawags would not be able to exculpate from their criminal liability just because of a technicality, i.e. prescription of the offense.

In the light of the foregoing considerations, immediate passage of this bill is urgently requested.
