AN ACT

CREATING THE AGRARIAN REFORM COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE CIRCUMVENTIONS AND VIOLATIONS OF REPUBLIC ACT NO. 6657, OTHERWISE KNOWN AS THE “COMPREHENSIVE AGRARIAN REFORM LAW OF 1988”, AS AMENDED, REPUBLIC ACT NO. 9700, AND OTHER AGRARIAN REFORM LAWS, AND APPROPRIATING FUNDS THEREFOR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The 1987 Constitution mandates that “The State shall, by law, undertake an agrarian reform program founded on the right of farmers and regular farmworkers who are landless, to own directly or collectively the lands they till or, in the case of other farmworkers, to receive a just share of the fruits thereof. To this end, the State shall encourage and undertake the just distribution of all agricultural lands, subject to such priorities and reasonable retention limits as the Congress may prescribe, taking into account ecological, developmental, or equity considerations, and subject to the payment of just compensation.”

From the implementation of the Comprehensive Agrarian Reform Program (CARP), studies have shown that “between 1998 and 2011, there is a greater increase in average per capita income (12.3%) and a deeper reduction in poverty incidence (21%) among CARP households as compared to land-owning non-CARP households and the general population.”¹ It has further been reported that according to former National Economic and Development Authority Secretary Cielito Habito, 81% of the farmers in Agrarian Reform Communities say their quality of lives improved with CARP.

The original target of CARP for compulsory acquisition (CA) was 1.5 million hectares. After 25 years, however, the CA accomplishment stood only at 325,720 hectares. The Department of Agrarian Reform has further estimated that 80% of collective certificates of land ownership award (CLOA) are not real cooperatives. Individual CLOAs covering around 800,000 hectares have yet to be issued. Moreover, about 600,000 hectares of long-term leaseback agreements with terms as long as 25 years and low lease rates are suspected as means to circumvent the CARP. Leaseback is only supposed to be a short term transition arrangement until the beneficiaries develop the capacity to be owner-cultivators.²

In view of the foregoing and as a social justice measure in pursuit of the just distribution of all agricultural lands as mandated by the Constitution, this bill seeks to establish the Agrarian Reform Commission to investigate circumventions and violations of the CARP. With an estimated 53% of Filipinos in rural areas engaged in agriculture³, uplifting their lives by securing
