Introduced by SENATOR LOREN LEGARDA

AN ACT PROVIDING FOR THE DEVELOPMENT AND PROTECTION OF THE PHILIPPINE HANDLOOM WEAVING INDUSTRY

Explanatory Note

Textiles and garments remain to be the third commodity cluster responsible for the US$ 2.14B in exports in 2012. In this sector, handloom weaving is one of the most time-honored cottage industries in the Philippines and a resource for rural employment and income. The industry has a considerable role in rural development as well as a great source of cultural pride and national identity.

However, the industry faces some inherent problems, including globalization, the high price of raw materials, marketing issues, unfair competition, minimal product diversification, disorganized artisan agencies, and the lack of government support.

Economic challenges and frayed mainstream market enthusiasm have tucked the handloom weaving industry to the shelves of vanishing Filipino traditions and perhaps to the brink of extinction.

The Philippine Handloom Weaving Industry Development Act seeks to revive the trade and empower weavers to be able to rise above the competitive global market and be able to grow their businesses in a self-reliant matter. These goals can be realized by creating a framework and roadmap that will synergize the various schemes and programs of other departments and agencies to optimize resource utilizations that aid the livelihood of the handloom weaving industry. This will give the weavers, artisans that safeguard the nation's cultural heritage, a better quality of life.

The Philippine Handloom Weaving Industry Development Act will preserve and further develop this century-old tradition. This industry can only flourish when there is guaranteed concrete and long-term economic benefits for the weavers and their families.

This bill proposes the following:

1. The passage of the Philippine Handloom Weaving Industry Development Act will promote local trade, celebrate Filipino culture, and give weavers economic and financial viability.

2. Establish a National Handloom Weaving Department Council composed of representatives from the National Commission on Indigenous People, Technical Education and Skills Development Authority, National Commission for Culture and the Arts, Garments and Textile Industry Development Office of the Department of Trade and Industry. The representative from the Philippine Textile Research Institute of the Department of Science and Technology will serve as Chair of the Council.

3. The council will create the National Handloom Weaving Industry Development Policy which will generate a roadmap for the industry, boost innovations, lend technical support, give intellectual property security, and promote neo-ethnic Philippine textiles.

4. Appropriate ten million pesos (Php10,000,000) from the National Treasury to fund the endeavor of the Council.

In the present economic climate in which businesses depend on foreign capital and know-how, the handloom industry presents a sustainable model of economic activity that is not dependent on energy, has low capital costs, and celebrates the extensive skill base of Filipino artistry. For these reasons, the passage of this bill is urgently sought.
