'18 DEC 10 P2:50

Introduced by SENATOR LEILA M. DE LIMA

AN ACT INSTITUTIONALIZING PRISON REFORM AND RESTORATIVE JUSTICE IN PHILIPPINE CORRECTIONAL SYSTEM AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippines is State Party to United Nations treaties encompassing human rights equally applicable to persons deprived of liberty. As such, it is obligated to bring to the level of domestic implementation its commitments through ways in which rights holders are able to access and meaningfully exercise them. The process of domesticating these rights include drawing guidance from standards that set benchmarks and indicators of success.

For persons deprived of liberty, the United Nations Minimum Standards for the Treatment of Prisoners is a comprehensive tool to help policy makers and implementers ensure that detention provide opportunities for correction and reform. In addition, there are other guidelines for specific sectors such as women and persons with disability.

In 2016 an all-out war against drugs was waged by President Rodrigo R. Duterte. In his insatiable thirst for blood, thousands of casualties fell to their grave<sup>1</sup>. He called out his uniformed men in blue to spread scarlet over our lands. As if the bloodshed was not enough, thousands more were arbitrarily and whimsically incarcerated when he pledged his support for the cops<sup>2</sup> in this war he orchestrated.

Two years later, the big fishes have not fallen<sup>3</sup>, but our detention facilities and penal institutions are overflowing with the little fishes who are also victims themselves in this war. By giving his men a pat on their shoulders for each human being put behind cold bars, his administration hit the gas pedal on mass incarceration<sup>4</sup>; and two years in his game, our jails are now the most congested in the entire world<sup>5</sup>. The numbers are rapidly rising at an alarming rate, and there is no better time for the passage of this law than now.

No human being, regardless of the crime he has been charged with, sheds his human rights and dignity at the door of the detention facility or penal institution. And this law seeks to address the growing concern for the innumerable human rights abuses<sup>6</sup> that this war has perpetuated against those who were caught in the middle of a man's pompous promises.

When the powers are tapped to handcuff those who are caught in the middle of the fight for justice, the end is to bring them under the hands of law and not merely to warehouse them and allow them to degrade and rot away<sup>7</sup> from the eyes of the public. For justice to be rightfully served, it is necessary that those who are accused and charged be brought before a judge to have their day in court, and if found guilty – to face the legal consequences thereof. This purpose could no longer be achieved if the guilty criminal sought to be made answerable for his acts has already succumbed to illnesses caught inside the detention center<sup>8</sup>.

If it is to be believed that the future that President Duterte has envisioned is one where each criminal is held accountable regardless whether he or she has perpetrated the crime as a mere runner or as a drug lord, then they ought not to be forever silenced in detention facilities and penal institutions also once called to be a hell on earth<sup>9</sup> before the hammer falls.

Article III Section 19 of the 1987 Constitution mandates that "xxx the use of substandard or inadequate penal facilities under subhuman conditions shall be dealt with by law". It is for this reason that the immediate passage of this law is sought, in order that the demons that the Bill of Rights seeks to protect the Filipino people from shall be banished. Humane conditions of these detention facilities and penal institutions are the minimum requirements of human dignity and human rights, and this law will be the guard standing at the gates of justice ensuring that they maintain their rights and dignity even inside prison cells.

This bill aims to focus, among other things, on restoring human dignity easily disregarded when a person is found guilty of committing a crime. Human dignity is what entitles everyone to human rights and it is not uncommon that when society does not appreciate this core value in a person particularly in a prisoner or detainee, there is almost no opportunity for redemption and time in jail becomes by and large a tool solely for punishment.

In my other bill, Senate Bill No. 1879 or the Unified Corrections and Jail Management System Act of 2018, I seek to introduce institutional reforms through the establishment of new and independent mechanisms and processes that take stock of good and useful practices of the present system.

In this bill, the policy direction is towards helping convicted and/or detained individuals develop appreciation of respect for the law and in turn, reduce their tendencies to recidivate, and prepare them for reintegration in society. This also takes into consideration the importance of strengthening capacities of those who work in correctional institutions and helping them appreciate their contribution to the full cycle of bringing to justice the perpetrators and ensuring that their victims are afforded the justice that they deserve.

The purpose of punishment under our Penal Laws is not confined to retribution and deterrence. It is important to emphasize that imprisonment under the force of law is also for correction and reformation. The purpose of this Act is to help the detainees, prisoners and persons deprived of liberty (PDLs) prepare for their eventual release

2 back in the society. To reintegrate them efficiently and peacefully into the community where they once belonged, a system of rehabilitation is vital. Putting them under the hands of law after all, is not the end of their lives but a step towards the rebuilding of a better one, where they can be useful members thereof.

As a first step towards the State's compliance with International Law obligations on respecting the human rights of prisoners and PDLs, organizational reforms shall be institutionalized, with the end in view of training the officials in whose hands and at whose mercy their rehabilitation and restoration would ultimately depend.

A new system of classification shall be implemented as a substitute of the present sentence-based classification. This new system will take into consideration not only the imposed penalties, but also other important factors that play a vital role in rehabilitating persons.

To prepare prisoners for their eventual release to society, intervention programs and In-Prison Employment shall be made available to them. This opportunity will allow them to gain skills that would be helpful in their eventual reintegration back into the community.

Finally, this Act recognizes that imprisonment is not a lifetime chain that would eternally bind prisoners in the dark. The State through this Act shall take the steps towards reform with them, by affording them assistance in seeking for jobs and housing once they are released back into society.

The aim of this Act is to speak for those whose voices have been muffled inside small, moldy dark cells that house 126,946 inmates instead of only 20,746, for those who dream of seeing light again one day, for the families left behind to suffer the trauma of separation, for those who are hopeful that they will be returned to the society someday, is the aim of this law<sup>10</sup>. For to remove them from the shadows of their masters cum monsters only to deliver them to the other monsters that vilify and dehumanize them is neither an effective solution nor in any part a true solution to the problem that this drug war seeks to eliminate.

AN ACT

INSTITUTIONALIZING PRISON REFORM AND RESTORATIVE JUSTICE IN PHILIPPINE CORRECTIONAL SYSTEM AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Philippines in Congress assembled:

Chapter I

Title, State Policy and Definition of Terms

Section 1. Short Title. – This Act shall be known as the Prison Reform Act of 2018.

- Sec. 2. Declaration of State Policies and Objectives. The State recognizes that the maintenance of peace and order, the protection of life, liberty, and property, and the promotion of the general welfare are essential for the enjoyment by all the people of the blessings of democracy. The State likewise values the dignity of every human person and guarantees full respect for human rights. To ensure adherence to these avowed policies, the State, through this Act, undertakes to establish a just, proportionate, effective, and humane correctional system, with the following objectives:
  - Prioritize the rehabilitation of persons deprived of liberty as domestic translation of the obligation to treat with humanity and with respect for inherent dignity, all persons deprived of liberty, as found in United Nations human rights conventions to which the Philippines is State Party and in fulfilment of the constitutional guarantee of full respect for human rights; and Institutionalize transformational policy direction in the Philippines' corrections system founded on the principle of restorative justice in order to reduce the risk of recidivism and other vulnerabilities to crime commission, violence, and diseases.

- 1. "Criminogenic needs" refers to characteristics, traits, problems, or issues of an individual that directly relate to the individual's likelihood to re-offend and commit another crime. This includes static factors such as age at the time of first arrest, criminal history, socio-economic background and dynamic factors such as lack of respect for authority, anti-social behavior, lack of literacy or job skills, or other expressed non-conformist behaviors, values, and attitudes that are correlated with criminal activity;
- 2. "Recidivism Risk Level" refers to the degree of probability of reoffending or committing another crime.
- 3. "Risk Assessment" refers to the process of evaluating the recidivism risk level of an offender, and provides an empirical estimate of whether an offender has a sufficiently high likelihood of again committing crime to justify incapacitation.
- 4. "Custodial duty" refers to the duty to ensure that persons deprived of liberty remain within the premises of prisons and jails while serving sentence or undergoing trial. It encompasses the duty to protect PDLs from violence that may occur from individual-or group-initiated operations within the facilities. It also compasses the duty to protect the rights of PDLs as provided in this Act;
- "Jail" refers to facilities that receive custody of individuals who are undergoing trial and those who have been sentenced to serve imprisonment not exceeding three years;
- 6. "Persons deprived of liberty" (PDLs) refer to any person deprived of personal liberty as a result of conviction for an offense. It shall also refer to a person arrested or detained by reason of a criminal charge, who is detained either in police custody or in jail awaiting trial or final conviction;

7. "Prison" refers to a government establishment where national inmates/prisoners serve their sentence. Prison shall include penal colonies and Prison and Penal Farms.

8. "Reformation" refers to the rehabilitation component of the corrections system and shall ensure that upon release from detention facilities, former PDLs shall not recidivate but are instead mainstreamed into society and able to live productive lives.

Chapter II

Coverage and Guiding Human Rights Principles in the Reformation of Persons Deprived of Liberty

- Sec. 4. Coverage. The programs and services for PDLs established under this Act shall apply to all persons deprived of liberty, including pre-trial detention prisoners, and individuals serving sentences, without discrimination regardless of age, sexual orientation, gender identity, ethnicity, religion, and other statuses under the custody of the Bureau of Jail Management and Penology (BJMP) and Bureau of Corrections (BuCor), and excludes those in other detention and custodial centers not under BJMP and BuCor.
- Sec. 5. Access to Justice. Access to competent and free legal aid shall be made available to persons deprived of liberty at all stages of litigation up to appeal, and the lawyers, representatives of organizations, or students from law schools providing this service should be free and safe from harassment.
- Sec. 6. Restorative Justice. Programs and their implementation shall be designed and/or carried out to address issues and concerns, including but not limited to, the necessity to recognize injury or damage committed against victims and their families, and the need for reparation and understanding of factors that lead to the commission of crimes, including deterrence.
- Sec. 7. Rights of Persons Deprived of Liberty. The following shall constitute the minimum rights to be accorded every person deprived of liberty:
  - 1. The right not to be subjected to torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, including solitary confinement;

2. The right to competent counsel in all stages of litigation, including appeal 1 and other post-conviction remedies, and the provision of free legal aid for 2 indigent PDLs; 3 3. The right to basic and necessary healthcare; 4 4. The right to clean and adequate food and water; 5 5. The right to decent and compensated work, whenever available and 6 applicable; 7 6. The right not to be discriminated against, and to be treated with respect due 8 to their inherent dignity and value as human beings. 9 Chapter III 10 Institutional Reforms 11 A. Judicial Reforms 12 Sec. 8. Protection of the Right of PDLs to Speedy Trial. - The 13 Department of Justice (DOJ), in coordination with the Judiciary and the Integrated 14 Bar of the Philippines (IBP), shall adopt appropriate measures to ensure that the right 15 of PDLs to speedy trial is protected. 16 Sec 9. Decongestion through a System of Automatic Release. - All 17 detention and correctional facilities are hereby mandated to automatically release 18 PDLs upon the concurrence of the following conditions: 19 The PDL has been in custody or has served time for a period equal to or 20 more than the maximum period prescribed for the offense charged. 21 2. A report has been filed at least ninety (90) days prior to the date of release 22 with the proper court and legal authorities on all matters relating to the 23 charge and the penalty provided therefor, the maximum period imposed for 24 the crime charged and/or committed provided under the law violated, and 25 the present period of incarceration. 26 3. Transmittal of approval by the proper court and legal authorities. 27 Sec. 10. Continuation of Trial or Proceedings on Appeal. - Nothing in 28 this Act shall mean a cessation of trial and proceedings already pending. The release 29 as ordered in the preceding section shall be without prejudice to the continuation of 30 the trial or proceedings on appeal, if any.

B. Facility Reforms

Sec. 11. Infrastructure Plan. – The Bureau of Corrections (BuCor) and the Bureau of Jail Management and Penology (BJMP) shall make an audit of existing penal facilities and conduct studies with the end in view of creating an Infrastructure Plan. The implementation of the plan shall not begin later than five (5) years from the effectivity of this Act, to be completed within a period of ten (10) years from the effectivity of this Act.
The Infrastructure Plan of the BuCor shall, as much as practicable, include the construction of at least one (1) penal facility per region. The said plan shall then be submitted to the DOJ for the inclusion thereof in the latter's budget.
The Infrastructure Plan of the BJMP shall be submitted to the Department of Interior and Local Government (DILG) for the inclusion thereof in the latter's budget.
Sec. 12. Facilities and Living Conditions Prisons and jails shall be built and improved to comply with standards in prison planning specific to dimension of cell and other guidelines for accommodations set forth in the United Nations Minimum Standards for Treatment of Prisoners. Facilities shall include but not limited to:

C. Organizational Reforms

Sec. 15. Appointment to the Bureau of Corrections. - Appointment to the Bureau of Corrections shall be based on merit determined through the exercise of sound and credible recruitment and hiring policy for all positions. The Civil Service Commission shall formulate the requirements and qualifications of individuals to be appointed to positions equivalent to Assistant Secretary to Chief of the Bureau.

Sec. 16. Organizational Structure, Salary and Rank, Term of Office of Officials. — To strengthen the Bureau of Corrections and to meet the appropriate ratio of staff attending to prisoners, additional personnel consisting of correctional and rehabilitation officers including administrative staff shall be recruited and appointed. Provided, that there shall be reserved appointments for three (3) graduates of the Correctional Academy provided in Section 22 of this Act, for every non-commissioned staff appointed. Provided further, that Assistant Secretaries to Chief of Corrections shall serve for a term of three years without reappointment or extension, unless separated from service sooner than end of the term.

Sec. 17. Additional Personnel and Upgrading of Positions. – In order to enhance their general welfare, commitment to service, and professionalism, additional personnel shall be employed to match the ideal ratio of custodial officer to prisoner. The necessary restructuring of personnel complement shall be undertaken with the assistance of the Department of Budget and Management and the Civil Service Commission.

The BJMP and BuCor shall take into consideration the international standards with regard to prisoner-to-jail/correctional officer ratio in determining its staff requirements.

Sec. 18. Retirement and Other Benefits Upon compulsory retirement, any custodial officer from the rank of Corrections Chief and below shall be entitled to retirement benefits computed on the basis of one grade higher than the position last held. Provided, that the retirement pay shall be subject to adjustments based on the prevailing scale of base pay of civilian personnel.

Sec. 19. Grant of Hazard Pay. – The officials, uniformed personnel and applicable civil personnel assigned to penal institutions of the Bureau of Jail Management and Penology and the Bureau of Corrections shall receive hazard pay.

Nothing in this Act shall be construed as to diminish, in any manner, any benefit granted by existing laws, rules and regulations, local ordinances and other issuances especially favorable to said covered officials and personnel.

The BuCor and BJMP, in close coordination with Department of Budget and Management, shall craft the appropriate hazard pay scale which will form part of the implementing rules and regulations of this Act.

Sec. 20. Professional Development of Officers and Staff. – The Bureau of Corrections is authorized to enter into cooperation agreements with overseas universities or colleges offering specialized courses on the criminal justice system, specifically on correctional and prison reforms. It shall devise a scheme whereby all officers and staff are able to participate in fellowship programs at short and regular intervals, subject to service obligations to the government, and in consultation with the Civil Service Commission.

Sec 21. Continuous System of Reassignment. — Subject to the exigencies of the service, jail/prison officers shall have a term-based assignment to avoid fraternization and familiarity with the PDLs. The tour of duty of jail/prison officers at each penal facility shall not exceed six (6) years. Service of each tour within the same penal facility shall be subject to the condition that the jail/prison officers shall serve at one office or section within the same facility for the first three (3) years thereof, and the last three (3) years at another office or section.

Constant reassignment through a system of rotation of posts of jail/prison officers shall be institutionalized. Such officers who are subject to reassignment shall be entitled to relocation allowance under existing laws.

Chapter IV

Philippine Correctional Academy and Training Institute

1	Sec. 22. Philippine Correctional Academy and Training Institute. –
2	There shall be created the Philippine Correctional Academy and Training Institute
3	(PCATI) which shall serve as the premier school for prospective custodial and
4	rehabilitation officers, to be designed to teach expertise on custodial, reformation and
5	rehabilitation work, with programs focusing on the context of detention, its causes and
6	objectives.
7	Sec. 23. Continuing Training Programs. – The PCATI shall provide
8	continuing capacity building for all officers and staff focusing on courses pertaining to
9	prison management and operations, paralegal work, human rights, culture and gender
10	sensitivity, and other relevant subject matters, including pertinent rules and
11	regulations of the BuCor and the facilities.
12	Sec. 24. Board of Directors. — The PCATI shall be under the management
13	and supervision of the Board of Directors (Board) composed of the following officials:
14	1. The Secretary of Justice as ex-officio Chairperson to be assisted by the Chief
15	of the Bureau of Corrections and as Permanent Representative;
16	2. Ex-officio Members:
17	<ul> <li>a. Chairperson, Commission on Higher Education;</li> </ul>
18	b. Secretary, Department of Education;
19	c. Chairperson, Commission on Human Rights;
20	d. Secretary, Department of Health;
21	e. Dean, National Defense College of the Armed Forces of the
22	Philippines.
23	3. The Board shall be assisted by a Secretariat headed by an Executive Director
24	with the rank of Assistant Secretary.
25	Sec. 25. Functions of the Board The Board shall develop and lay down
26	policies to provide education and training in prison administration and PDL
27	reformation. This shall also cover regular and continuing capacity building for staff
28	and technical vocational skills for PDLs, in cooperation with relevant government
29	agencies and the private sector
30	Sec. 26. Recruitment of Custodial Officers Custodial officers shall be
31	recruited for study and training in the PCATI. After completion of a minimum of two-year course in the PCATI, they shall be considered as commissioned officers. The

1	PCATI shall likewise develop an on-the-job training program for prison employees	S
2	who are recruited or hired without having completed the required courses.
3	Sec. 27. Continuing Research. – The PCATI shall conduct a continuing	5
4	research and advocacy work on the following:
5	1. Best practices relating to prison management and operations and prisone	r
6	reform;
7	2. Best practices relating to the use of prisoner risk and needs assessmen	t
8	tools;
9	3. Best available risk and needs assessment tools and the level to which the
.0	rely on dynamic risk factors that could be addressed and changed over time	,
.1	and on measures of risk of recidivism, individual needs, and responsivity to	О
2	recidivism reduction programs;
13	4. The most effective and efficient uses of such tools in conjunction with	1
14	recidivism reduction programs, productive activities, incentives, and	ŀ
15	rewards;
16	5. The most effective recidivism reduction programs in addressing the
17	different risks and specific criminogenic needs of prisoners, and the volume
18	and intensity of programming that most effectively reduces the risk of	f
19	recidivism for prisoners with different risks of recidivating; and
20	6. The most effective pre-release custody options for prisoners with differen	t
21	risks of recidivating.
22	The PCATI shall regularly submit its findings and recommendations to the DO	J
23	and Congress for possible amendments to the existing rules and laws.
24
25	Chapter V
26	System of Effective Administration of Justice and Reformation
27	Sec. 28. Reception and Diagnostics Center (RDC) There shall b	e
28	created Reception and Diagnostics Center within each penal facility, which is tasked	d
29	with the mandate of establishing a continuing assessment of PDLs for the duration of	f
30	imprisonment.
31	The RDC shall be responsible for the conduct of classification of each and ever
32	inmate admitted to penal institutions. The classification will be put in lieu of th	e sentence-based classification, and shall be based on the following principles:

 Risk Principle which suggests that the amount of supervision and control accorded to inmates must be based on their criminogenic needs and tendency to commit crimes within the penal facility;

- Needs Principle which suggests that the factors that led inmates to criminal behavior must be properly and fully diagnosed, and that physical, mental and psychosocial health of inmates must be fully taken into consideration in their housing and segregation; and
- Responsivity Principle which suggests that inmates respond differently to programs, and that programs must be specifically tailored to their individual potential for rehabilitation, reformation and reintegration into society, and their capacity to respond thereto.

The RDC shall be the point of entry of all inmates in penal facilities. Except during periods of national emergency or on account of natural disaster/calamity, in no case shall an inmate stay within the RDC for a period longer than sixty (60) days.

Sec. 29. Housing Assignment. – The RDC shall be the principal office tasked with the mandate of determining the housing assignment of inmates based on the abovementioned principles.

There shall be three (3) housing security levels which will have varying levels of control, inmate movement, programs, and privileges. Inmates with special physical, mental and psychosocial health needs shall be segregated accordingly so as not to exacerbate their health condition. Inmates with communicable diseases shall also be housed separately in order to prevent an outbreak within the penal facility.

The following are the levels of housing security:

- Level I Housing which is designed for inmates with low levels of risk and needs based on the principles mentioned in Section 28 hereof. Inmates who are nearing the completion of their sentences can also be transferred within this level. The programs which will be offered in this level shall be geared towards reintegration of inmates upon release;
- Level II Housing which is designed for inmates with moderate levels of risk and needs based on the principles mentioned in Section 28 hereof. Inmate programs offered in this level shall be geared towards social equipping like livelihood, education, and prison industries; and

3. Level III Housing which is designed for inmates with higher levels of risk 1 and needs based on the principles mentioned in Section 28 hereof. Inmate 2 programs offered in this level shall be geared towards cognitive change like 3 psychotherapy, counseling, and substance detoxification. 4 Sec. 30. Penal Facility Assignment. - As much as practicable, PDLs shall 5 be detained or serve their sentence in the region where they reside at the time of 6 incarceration. 7 Sec. 31. Disciplinary Committee. - There shall be created a Disciplinary 8 Committee within each penal facility: 9 1. The Committee shall be composed of the following: 10 a. One (1) Chairman who is also the head of the penal facility; 11 b. Three (3) Disciplinary Officers who are also appointed officers of the 12 Bureau of Corrections; 13 c. One (1) representative from the Commission on Human Rights; and 14 d. One (1) member each from the private sector and the Integrated Bar of 15 the Philippines. 16 The Committee shall be responsible for investigating the violation of rules 17 committed by PDLs and recommending appropriate and proportionate sanctions 18 therefor. 19 Sec. 32. Allowable In-prison Disciplinary Penalties. - Upon the 20 finding of guilt, the following penalties may be imposed by the Disciplinary 21 Committee: 22 Recommendation for the prosecution for additional offenses; 23 2. Rendering of prison-support services such as, but not limited to cooking, 24 cleaning, doing clerical work, running the laundry, or performing 25 maintenance chores, subject to their physical and mental fitness as 26 determined by the medical officer; 27 3. Time credit deductions in the computation of Good Conduct Time 28 Allowance; 29 4. Restriction of visiting privileges; 30

7. Other similar penalties as may be determined by the disciplinary committee.

5. Housing reassignment;

6. Prison reassignment; and

31

32

No penalty shall be imposed that is more than necessary for the rehabilitation and reformation of the inmate. In no case shall the disciplinary committee impose any punishment that is contrary to law.

Sec. 33. Intervention Programs Office. – There shall be created within each penal facility an Intervention Office. The Intervention Office shall be responsible for creating and implementing intervention programs.

- Sec. 34. Intervention Programs. The intervention programs shall be designed and targeted for PDLs within the same recidivism risk levels. They may be any of the following:
  - Education and training programs designed to give basic and advance education to PDLs, or provide them with technical skills. BuCor shall coordinate with the Department of Education, Commission on Higher Education, and Technical Education and Skills Development Authority for the design and implementation of these programs.
  - 2. Work and productivity programs designed to utilize the existing skills and capabilities of PDLs towards administration of the penal facility or community service.
  - Counselling and self-improvement programs designed to provide continuous counselling services to PDLs to encourage reformation and selfimprovement.

Sec. 35. Intervention Program Credits. — Participation in intervention programs shall earn PDLs with Intervention Program Credits equivalent to the hours spent during such participation. For every six-month period in which the PDL is not subjected to any disciplinary action or recommended for prosecution for crimes committed during the service of sentence, the Intervention Programs Office shall recommend to the Parole and Probation Administration (DOJ-PPA) a reduction in sentence equivalent to the Intervention Program Credits earned during such period.

However, PDLs who are convicted of crimes involving moral turpitude may not be recommended for sentence reduction until after they have served half of the minimum period of their prison sentence. Upon completion of said period, the Intervention Programs Office may recommend a reduction in sentence equivalent to half of the Intervention Programs Credits earned, provided that the PDL was not subjected to more than one disciplinary action per year, or recommended for prosecution for crimes committed during the service of sentence, during the said period.

The Intervention Program Credit system shall be without prejudice to the existing system granting allowance for good behavior.

Sec. 36. Risk Reassessments and Level Adjustment. — PDLs who successfully participate in intervention programs or productive activities shall receive periodic risk reassessments not less than annually, and PDLs determined to be at high recidivism risk level and who have less than five (5) years until their projected release date shall receive more frequent risk reassessments. The Intervention Program Office shall adjust the intervention programs for PDLs with high recidivism risk levels.

Sec. 37. Provision of Adequate and Holistic Healthcare for PDLs. – Health programs for physical and mental health shall be established by the BuCor and the BJMP.

There shall be created in every penal institution a Medical Support Office (MSO). This Office shall be in charge of ensuring that medical service, psychosocial support and other counseling services shall be made available to the PDLs.

The MSO shall, in partnership with the Department of Health (DOH) and the National Center for Mental Health (NCMH), provide free mental health counseling, education and evaluation to any prisoner. These services shall be made available to them upon the entry of the prisoner in the penal institution and until after the lapse of one (1) year from the time he or she departs from the penal institution when he or she has secured release through an acquittal, service and expiration of sentence, grant of parole, commutations, reprieves and other forms of executive clemency, or through the order of competent authority.

The MSO shall provide them with family-centered programs that focus on family strengthening activities and nurturing of family relationships, during incarceration and following release. Services that will help prisoners cultivate insight to prevent recidivism shall also be made available to them. Within six (6) months prior to the date his or her release, the MSO shall craft a program that will prepare the prisoner for his or her release and eventual reintegration into his or her family, into his or her community, and into the society.

The spouse and children of the prisoners shall likewise be entitled to the psychosocial support and counselling services benefits granted under this Section.

They shall also be provided with free psychosocial support and other counseling services that will assist them in coping with the changes brought about by the incarceration. The MSO shall, within six (6) months prior to the date of the prisoner's release, help them prepare for the imminent return of the prisoner to their family. These services may be continuously availed of until after the lapse of one (1) year from the time of the prisoner's release.

Sec. 38. In-facility Employment. — There shall be created in every penal institution a Prison Revenue Office (PRO) which shall be in charge of institutionalizing revenue generating programs. The PRO shall encourage interested prisoners to participate in the Prisoner Employment Program (PEP). Through the PEP, qualified prisoners will be provided with opportunities to engage in meaningful and sustainable paid employment, work experience and vocational training inside the penal institution. The PRO shall also encourage interested employers to become involved in the PEP, upon compliance with requirements to be determined by the PRO.

The PRO shall, in coordination with TESDA, formulate and establish income generating programs that will allow qualified prisoners a) to receive reasonable compensation for the work thus performed, and b) to gain an employment certification that will reflect their employment record.

The PRO shall establish a savings program with government accredited banking institutions which may be availed of by qualified PDLs.

Sec. 39. Post-Prison Employment. — There shall be created in every penal institution a Job Assistance Office (JAO). Without prejudice to other existing government employment programs, the JAO shall, together with the Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE), establish and maintain a Post-Prison Employment Program (PPEP) that will raise awareness regarding available job opportunities which a prisoner may apply for upon release. The JAO shall encourage private sector participation by providing incentives and privileges to private business establishments that will open job opportunities to former prisoners. The JAO shall ensure that the job opportunities, both in the public and private sectors, shall not create undue and unlawful discrimination against former prisoners seeking employment.

Sec. 40. PPEP Tax Credit. – Employers that will participate in the Post-Prison Employment Program (PPEP) upon the effectivity of this Act, shall be entitled to an additional deduction from their gross income, equivalent to fifteen percent (15%) of the total amount paid as salaries and wages to former prisoners, subject to Section 4 of the National Internal Revenue Code for a period of five (5) years from the time of employment or until such employment is terminated, whichever is shorter.

Any company, or individual who has hired a former prisoner within five (5) years from his or her release, is entitled to avail of tax credit granted under this Act. The said tax credit should be collected immediately on the next tax period.

Sec. 41. Housing Assistance Office. — There shall be created in every penal institution a Housing Assistance Office (HAO). The HAO shall be in charge of providing assistance in the finding of affordable and stable housing or temporary housing facility, to a former prisoner who is seeking reentry into the society after having secured an acquittal, or having served the full term of his or her sentence, or having been granted commutations and reprieves, without prejudice to other existing government housing programs.

Without prejudice to other existing government housing programs, the HAO together with the National Housing Authority (NHA) and the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD), shall provide assistance in the finding of affordable and stable housing or temporary housing facility to a prisoner within six (6) months prior to the date of his or her release, and after the lapse of one (1) year from the time he or she departs from the penal institution.

The HAO shall 1) assess the prisoner's housing needs or requirements, 2) provide accurate information about housing resources available in his or her area, 3) assist with the application process, and 4) make follow-ups to evaluate the conditions of the prisoner in his or her new home.

Sec. 42. Identification Process. – The Bureau of Corrections shall identify prisoners who are eligible for release within six months. Information gathered shall then be relayed to the HAO and the JAO to facilitate their enrollment in the respective programs of the said offices. Once identified as eligible for the available programs, prisoners shall be given the option to enroll and consent to be part thereof.
