AN ACT
PROVIDING FOR DIRECT FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO BACKYARD
LIVESTOCK RAISERS AFFECTED BY MAJOR ANIMAL DISEASE EPIDEMIC
OR TRANSBOUNDARY ANIMAL DISEASES, AMENDING FOR THE PURPOSE
REPUBLIC ACT NO. 1578, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippine Livestock Industry provides livelihood for thousands of Filipino livestock raisers, as well as food for millions of Filipino families. In 2018, the local livestock industry registered an aggregate production value of P321.52 billion, which comprise about 17.66% of the total production value of the agricultural, hunting, forestry and fishing industry. During the same year, some 32.34 million heads of cattle, carabao, swine and goats were slaughtered in the country, of which 42.68% or 13.80 million were slaughtered in slaughterhouses nationwide. In 2017, an average Filipino consumes 66.45 grams of beef, carabeef, pork and chevon on a daily basis, providing every Filipino diet with an average of 212.51 grams of calories, 21.15 grams of proteins, and 13.90 grams of fat. Moreover, an average Filipino family spends almost P5,275 annually on fresh beef, pork and chevon, translating to an aggregate disbursement of about P119.90 billion.

Given the economic and dietary importance of the local livestock industry, there is a need to ensure that livestock raisers, which maintain some 21.96 million livestock heads, remain agriculturally productive to realize the twin goals of reducing rural poverty and ensuring food security.

The government engagement in the local livestock industry, however, remains limited despite the significant contribution of the local livestock industry in the socioeconomic well-being of every Filipino. This limited role of government in managing the industry contributes to the persistence of inefficiencies that hinder the industry from realizing its full potential. Additionally, it inhibits the ability of the government to provide swift and timely interventions during emergency situations, particularly during the outbreak of animal disease epidemics and transboundary animal diseases.

This bill seeks to provide remedy to this situation by amending Republic Act No. 1578. Under the prevailing law, first enacted in 1952, municipal treasurers can only collect ninety cents (P0.90) for every head of cattle, carabao, buffalo, horse, mule and other animals of the bovine family; sixty cents (P0.60) for every head of swine; and thirty cents (P0.30) for every head of sheep, goat and deer slaughtered in any public or private slaughterhouse and in private meat packing establishments as pre-slaughter fees. This bill adjusts the rate of pre-slaughter fees to its present value, thereby increasing the potential collection of pre-slaughter fees by as much as 13,230%. Additionally, this proposed measure earmarks a portion of the Philippine Livestock Promotion Fund for direct financial assistance to backyard livestock raisers adversely affected by animal disease epidemics and transboundary animal disease. With these interventions, it is hoped that the government will have enough wherewithal to assist the local livestock industry especially during calamities and emergency situations.

The goal of the bill is simple yet noble and doable: to provide the government with the financial wherewithal to assist the industry that provides income and helps reduce poverty in the countryside, and that ensures the availability of food for all Filipinos.

In light of the foregoing, immediate passage of the bill is earnestly sought.
