AN ACT
SETTING THE TERM OF OFFICE OF BARANGAY OFFICIALS AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Article II, Section 25 of the 1987 Constitution provides that the State shall ensure the autonomy of local governments. In addition, Article X, Section 8 of the Constitution makes it clear that the terms of office of barangay officials shall be determined by law.

Barangays are the basic unit of government in the Philippines. As of 31 December 2023, there are 42,001 barangays in the country. These barangay rely on their respective Barangay officials for their smooth and proper operations.

However, running the barangay is not the only responsibility of Barangay officials. To say that the responsibilities and duties of these officials are varied is an understatement. The roles of barangay officials encompass those of a mediator, peace-maker, social worker, rescue worker, and representative of the people. They also have pivotal roles in the planning and implementation of the policies, plans, programs, projects, and activities of the National Government and local government units.

It is unfortunate that because of their myriad duties and responsibilities, Barangay officials often do not get the chance formulate, develop, and implement their own policies and projects. The present term of three years is far too short for these officials to see their own projects through, since they spend the greater portion of their terms implementing the policies and projects of the National Government and as well as those of the city, municipal, or provincial government units.

In fact, from 1982 to 2022, average term of barangay officials has been 4 years and 4 months. During the same period, there have been countless postponements of the barangay elections. These are clear indications of the perennial problem of the insufficiency of the term of barangay officials. Therefore, it is necessary to set and fix, once and for all, the terms of office of these officials. A term of six years would be sufficient and would enable these officials not only to comply with all the orders and mandate of the National Government and various local governments, but also to design and implement their own policies and projects for the betterment of their respective barangays.

An equally important reason to fix longer terms of office for barangay officials is to enable the National Government to save billions of pesos. For the barangay elections in 2023, the COMELEC required a budget of around Php 18 billion. This upward trend in election costs will continue not only because of the general increase in the prices of election materials and manpower, but also because of the possibility that even barangay elections will also be automated in the future.

At this point, it must be pointed out that Sangguniang Kabataan (SK) officials also have crucial roles in the operation and development of the barangay. However, there is a need for a thorough review of the present SK laws. Thus, the terms of office of SK officials shall be dealt with in future amendments or revisions of the relevant SK laws.

Given the abovementioned circumstances, the immediate passage of this bill is necessary.
