S No. 795

Introduced by Senator Ramon Bong Revilla, Jr.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

In the information age that we live in, the leaps and bounds achieved by industries associated with information technology have made possible the rapid dissemination of advancements in science, technology, agriculture, engineering, and many other fields of knowledge.

If the Philippine labor force is to catch up with the rest of the world, Philippine policy makers should be cognizant of the fact that today, computer literacy is a skill that is as basic to a student as mathematics, language or reading literacy.

This bill seeks to establish the Board on Computer Education as the government agency that will be tasked to promote the development of computer literacy among Filipino students. It also proposes enabling measures and incentives such as tax-free importation of computer hardware by accredited entities in order to facilitate the implementation of a computer literacy program in nineteen of the country's poorest provinces.

Our abundant supply of labor will turn out to be a liability unless our workers are adequately equipped with the skills needed to compete in the global arena. This measure proposes to achieve the goal of a competitive Philippine labor force through computer education.

In view of the foregoing, early passage of this bill is strongly urged.

RAMON BONG REVILLA, JR.
