Bill No. 1242

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Existing laws seeking to prevent or abate graft and corruption in government already penalize persons who receive a present, gift or any material or pecuniary advantage as well as those who, without being legally authorized to do so, actually intervene, directly or indirectly in any business, transaction, application, request or contract with the government.

Prior to the receipt of any gift or present or the actual act of intervening, however, is the offer or representation made by a person that he can influence the public official or employee required by law to intervene or be able to assist and/or facilitate a transaction, contract or request with the government which, up to now, remains unabated.

It is this gap which this bill seeks to fill by penalizing influence peddling or the mere act of representing oneself to another person having a transaction or request with the government thus effectively clipping corruption at its inception even before any gift or present is given and even before there has actually been an intervention in connection with such request or transaction.

With the enactment into law of this bill, it is believed that an effective deterrent will be set up to nip corruption at the bud and prior to any damage being inflicted upon government coffers as well as on our people with legitimate transactions or dealings with government.
