Senate Bill No. 1250

Introduced by Senator FRANCIS N. PANGILINAN

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Local sectoral representation is one of the most significant democratization provisions in the 1987 Constitution as well as in the 1991 Local Government Code. It allows representatives from local sectoral groups especially those belonging to the marginalized to be elected as members of the local sanggunians and participate in local legislation or policy-making process. It intends to expand the composition of local sanggunians by democratizing electoral and political opportunities in consonance with the social justice provisions of the Constitution. By allowing the people to choose their sectoral organizations, the representation of the marginalized sectors in the local sanggunians will be ensured.

Section 9, Art. X of the 1987 Constitution states that "legislative bodies of local governments shall have sectoral representation as may be prescribed by law." Section 41 (c) of R.A. No. 7160 or the Local Government Code, on the other hand, states that "...there shall be one (1) sectoral representative from the women, one (1) from the workers, and one (1) from any of the following sectors: the urban poor, indigenous cultural communities, disabled persons, or any other sector as may be determined by the sanggunian concerned within ninety (90) days prior to the holding of the next local elections as may be provided for by law." It also states that COMELEC shall promulgate the rules and regulations to effectively provide for the election of such sectoral representatives.

While previous attempts were made by the COMELEC to set the date and call the first elections for sectoral representatives through various resolutions (Resolution Nos. 2515 and 2753 – calling for special elections in 1993; Resolution Nos. 2753 – where elections for sectoral representatives would coincide with the 1995 national and local elections), no elections to date has been conducted.

In 1995, Congress enacted Republic Act No. 7887 which instituted certain electoral reforms. The last paragraph of Sec. 1 thereof states that the "COMELEC shall promulgate rules and regulations to effectively implement the provisions of law which may hereafter be enacted providing for the election of sectoral representatives." This provision apparently strengthened COMELEC's position not to push through with the planned elections in deference to Congress.

Six years after, Congress has yet to pass an enabling law that will pave the way for the conduct of elections for local sectoral representatives. The constitutional and statutory mandate for such elections has not been implemented simply because of the absence of an enabling law that will provide for the manner and date of election of sectoral representatives to the local sanggunians.

The bill if enacted to into law will serve as the enabling law for the unimplemented constitutional and statutory policy on local sectoral representation. The salient features of the bill includes: (a) election of (3) sectoral representatives each in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan, Sangguniang Bayan and Sangguniang Panlungsod – (one (1) from the women sector, one (1) from the workers, and one (1) from any of the following sectors: the urban poor, indigenous cultural communities, disabled persons and elderly; (b) the first election will be on the second Monday of May 2004 and every three years thereafter; (c) requirement of registration of sectoral organizations/coalitions to qualify in elections; (d) qualifications of sectoral nominees; (e) forfeiture of seat by any elected sectoral representative who changes his organizational affiliation during his term of office; and (f) conduct of voter's education.

For the past ten years since the enactment of the Local Government Code, there has been a marked increase in interest by civil society in local governance. This augurs well in instilling greater accountability in governance, but also in promoting innovative governance in partnership with an empowered civil society. The implementation of local sectoral representation is an important institutional mechanism for attaining this objective.

Hence, the approval of the bill is most earnestly sought.
