S.B. No. 2463

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The conversion of the Philippine Nautical School founded in 1820 to Philippine Merchant Marine Academy (PMMA) was enacted into law by virtue of RA 3680 in 1963 during the administration of President Diosdado Macapagal. The PMMA confers Bachelor of Science Degree in Marine Transportation, Major in Navigation and Seamanship and Bachelor of Science Degree in Marine Transportation Major in Steam Engine and Electrical Engineering.

PMMA's dedication to produce quality merchant marine officers has placed most of its graduates to work in different parts of the world to be in charge of international vessels utilized for commercial trade and similar marine industry.

While the government is duty bound to subsidize the PMMA students throughout their four-year course, the cadets are not obliged to render service to the government after they are conferred with a bachelor's degree. It has been the long time sentiment among the maritime industry players, as well as the government, to require the graduates to render mandatory service to the civil service sector.

This bill simply seeks to amend the existing charter of PMMA by including a provision that mandates all graduates to render at least 24 months of service in any government agency right after their graduation.

In order to keep with the international marine industry standards, this bill likewise amended the term for the positions of "third mate" to "OPERATIONAL LEVEL DECK WATCH KEEPING OFFICER" and the term "fourth stream engineers" to "OPERATIONAL LEVEL ENGINE WATCH KEEPING OFFICERS", which effectively removed distinctions in the different grade levels in third mate and fourth stream engineers positions.

In view of the foregoing, immediate approval of this measure is earnestly requested.
