SENATE

Senate Bill No. 511

RECEIVED BY:

INTRODUCED BY SEN. JINGGOY EJERCITO ESTRADA

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The National Irrigation Administration (NIA) which was created under R.A. 3601, is tasked with the development policy, operation and maintenance of the irrigation systems all over the country. Likewise, it is mandated to provide corollary services in line with the agricultural development program of the national government such as construction of more infrastructures, and employment of modern technology and other support services.

The creation of NIA in the government's efforts to attain self-sufficiency in agricultural crops, which has become one of our nation's major economic goals.

The country's concern for the development of irrigation system expressed in the enactment of R.A. 3601 up to this date, particularly because of the risks brought about by the depletion of water resources due to prevalent environmental degradation such as indiscriminate deforestation, quarrying with restricted zones and uncontrolled siltation, as well as such factors as rapid urbanization and burgeoning population.

Its Board of Directors exercises the powers and functions of NIA. Under P.D. No. 552, which amended R.A. 3601, the Board is composed of six members and Farmers are only represented by the rice and corn organization in the Board of Directors. This proposed measure then provides the inclusion of a representative from the private sector particularly the consumers and entrepreneurs who are also associates and partners in the formulation of economic policies. The inclusion of the sector in the board shall provide for a more integrated and coordinated food security policies.

Their participation will enable the agency to be more responsive to the concerns and agenda of all sectors of society which together constitute the working elements of the agricultural sectors of the national economy.

In view of the foregoing considerations, immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
