EXPLANATORY NOTE

A person's right to privacy as stated under Article III, Section 3 of the Philippine Constitution is not only limited to a person's right against unlawful intrusion into one's home or personal effects but also extends to a person's communication or correspondence whether it be spoken, written, or electronic.

This right to privacy of communication and correspondence is further strengthened with the enactment of Republic Act No. 4200 entitled, "An Act to Prohibit and Penalize Wire Tapping and other related Violations of the Privacy of Communication, and for other Purposes" which prohibited and penalized wiretapping.

This proposed bill, in support with the measures mentioned above, further reinforces a person's right to privacy of communications and correspondence by providing additional means that would make it more difficult to access phone records of consumers which may be accessed without their authorization.

In view of the foregoing, immediate approval of this measure is earnestly sought.
