EXPLANATORY NOTE

A candidate is defined as any person aspiring for or seeking an elective public office, who has filed a certificate of candidacy by himself or through an accredited political party or coalition of parties. In the Philippines, as long as he or she can meet the minimum qualifications set by the law, anyone can be a candidate for public office. Because of this flexibility, almost everybody in our country can run for an elective office. Filipinos from all walks of life regardless of their leadership capability and intellectual capacity are willing to run for any office at whatever cost not withstanding the impossibility of winning an election. They are called "nuisance candidates".

Nuisance candidates are those candidates that file their certificate of candidacy even though they not really expect or intend to win. They bring confusion among the voters and pester other candidates, including the Commission on Elections.

To ensure free, orderly, honest, peaceful and credible elections, the Commission on Elections must formulate effective mechanism whereby the presence of nuisance candidates will be minimized if not eradicated. Nuisance candidates must be interpreted in such a way that it will encompass all possible instances, tantamount to making the election process a mockery in itself.

Hence, the passage of this bill is earnestly recommended.
