EXPLANATORY NOTE

Section 9 Article II of the Constitution provides that the State shall free the people from poverty through policies that provide adequate social services, promote full employment, a rising standard of living, and an improved quality of life for all. Republic Act No. 8425, otherwise known as the "Social Reform and Poverty Alleviation Act", points to the institution of the expansion of micro-credit and microfinance services as one of the fundamentals in eradicating poverty in the country.

Since 2004, microfinance loans to four million entrepreneurial poor have reached P223.98 billion. Such coverage of microfinance services reveals the potential of micro-enterprise development institutions in providing opportunities for the poor to explore economic undertakings and climb up the social ladder.

The bill seeks the creation of micro-enterprise development institutions to expand, enhance and promote the access of the poor to microfinance services such as credit, insurance, savings and health care, enabling them to operate their own productive economic opportunities.

To encourage the expansion of services of the micro-enterprise development institutions, the proposed measure provides that they shall be exempted from national and local taxes. In lieu of this exemption, they shall be subject to a tax of 2% of their gross income as contribution to the People's Development Trust Fund created and established under the "Social Reform and Poverty Alleviation Act".

Recognizing the enormous contribution of microfinance services in the fight against poverty, it is high time that the national government create an enabling environment for the promotion, broadening and enhancement of such services to the poor population. It is the intent of the measure institute micro-enterprise development to accelerate socio-economic progress.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
