EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Islamic educational institution known as Madrasah has undergone a process of evolution commencing from the traditional family-based education of the Holy Qur'an to the community-organized and more sophisticated institution that it is today.

As proof of the growing awareness of the significance of Islamic philosophy as an essential component of the larger Philippine educational system, Islamic Studies have been included in both the undergraduate and graduate programs at the Institute of Islamic Studies of the University of the Philippines and at the King Faisal Center for Islamic and Arabic Studies of the Mindanao State University. The study of the Arabic language has also been integrated in the curricula of higher education of both institutions as well as in the Foreign Service Institute of the Department of Foreign Affairs. Private schools have also started to offer courses in Arabic and Islamic Studies.

Despite the above-mentioned developments, the Madrasah has yet to fulfill the educational needs of the majority of the Muslim population of the Philippines. There are presently about 2,000 Madaris serving the needs of the Muslims and the other indigenous cultural minorities. But there is no standard in the facilities and the quality of education offered by these Madaris. This is compounded by the problem of the lack of funds to finance the acquisition of additional facilities and instructional materials, the construction of additional classrooms, and the training of Madrasah teachers and administrators.

To overcome these problems this bill seeks to establish a permanent trust fund to be known as the Fund for Madrasah Education (FAME). As a safeguard to ensure the non-impairment of the Fund, this bill also provides for the corresponding guidelines and criteria for its use and allocation. The Board of Trustees will also be required to submit copies of the annual financial statement of the FAME within sixty days from the close of each calendar year to Congress as well as to the Office of the President.

The approval of this bill will be in consonance with the policy of the State as embodied in BP No. 232 "to promote the right of the nation's cultural communities in the exercise of their rights to develop themselves within the context of their cultures, customs, traditions, interests and beliefs."

Approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
